

DATE: 24th September, 2010
PUBLICATION: mX (Sydney)
PAGE: 4
AUTHOR: Renata Gortan
CIRCULATION: 96,253
DISTRIBUTION: Sydney

Designers Penelope Bolkovsky, Naomi Swalwell and Vanessa Buchan. Picture: CHRIS PAVLICH

● STYLE SPOTTERS

Picking a winner in the fashion stakes

The Spring Racing Carnival will kick off with a fashionable flourish tomorrow.

Milliner Nerida Winter will judge the Fashion Spotting finals at George Main Stakes Day (Ladies Day) at Royal Randwick tomorrow.

Designers Naomi Swalwell, Penelope Bolkovsky and Vanessa Buchan will be on the lookout for the best-dressed racegoer between 1.30pm-2.30pm and the finals will take place at 3.30pm.

"I'll be looking for someone with a true sense of self, unique style and someone who is having fun," Winter said.

"Seize the opportunity to dress up and dress appropriately for daytime."

She said nude and blush tones were prominent this season and worked well for spring. "Complement these tones with bright coloured accessories in raspberry, coral and bright pink tones," she said.

Winter said millinery trends for the season were all about supersized couture floral headpieces, exquisite lace boaters, sculptural cocktail pieces and old school glam '50s style hats.

— RENATA GORTAN